Editorial

As another year of academic cadence goes by, we reflect up on the milestones achieved in the past year and also set new goals to 'expand horizons'. The theme of the year 'Expanding Horizons' is specifically chosen to culminate and mirror the transformative academic journey and the prospective ventures of the institution.

The fulfilling manoeuvres of faculty and students; literary and cultural galore; extra curricular activities; creative geniuses and.... celebrate the rich academic legacy and linguistic diversity on campus.

We would like to extend our heartfelt gratitude and appreciation to the principal, Dr. Sr. Vijaya Rani for her unwavering support and guidance in bringing perfection to this volume. We would also like to acknowledge the valuable inputs and guidance from the Deans and the Heads of the departments (in giving a shape).

We congratulate the Editorial team for their efforts in putting (piercing) things together and ensuring the output (harvest) is pleasing to the eyes and mind.

Let us hope that as you peruse the pages of the magazine it brings back beautiful memories of the year gone by and gives you a deep sense of pride and contentment.

Expanding Horizons

Beyond the edge of what I know,
Where restless winds of wonder blow, I set my sights
on lands unseen,
On dreams as vast as skies serene. Each step I take, a lesson learned, with every bridge, a fear unburned. The world unfolds in hues so wide, no longer bound, no need to hide.
The stars whisper of distant shores, of stories yet to be explored.
And though the path is rough and steep, I chase the light, I dive in deep.
For growth is born in open skies, in daring
hearts, in seeking eyes.
Now all remain, no tether binds—
Just endless roads and open minds.

Reflection on joy

A reminder to find happiness in life's simple moments.

It's funny how we often overlook the small things, thinking happiness is some grand prize waiting at the end of a long journey. But if we slow down and look around, we see that joy often hides in the simplest of places.

We chase joy, don't we? We set big goal, thinking, 'when I get there, I'll be happy'. But what if joy isn't a destination? What if it is waiting for us to notice it in the smallest moments?

In my late teens, I discovered that happiness thrives in the journey itself, teaching us to cherish the beauty of the present.

A warm cup of tea on a chilly morning, a smile from a stranger, the first rays of sunshine breaking through the clouds, a warm hug from a loved one, rainy days and good books, the laughter of your siblings, witnessing your parents' smiles - these moments, so small and ordinary, are what make life truly rich. They don't shout for attention; they whisper gently, asking us to notice, to savour.

But joy is also deeply personal. For me, it lies in the moments of spiritual connection. Choosing the Creator over the creation. In the stillness of dawn or the quiet of night, when I open my heart out to my Lord I feel an unshakable peace, a joy that transcends the physical world. It is in these moments that I begin to value my solitude, reminded of the peace within me, the endless mercy of my Lord, and the strength I can draw from Him. These reflections fill my heart with gratitude and hope.

Family too has been a wellspring of happiness for me. As the youngest of all my siblings, I have been nurtured and protected by my six amazing role models from the very beginning. Oh! What a deep sense of joy it is to live in the loving environment they have created. My parents, with their boundless affection and wise encouragement have instilled in me the value of treasuring relationships and appreciating life's little wonders. And then there's my niece, a delightful little spark of joy, who has brought an entirely new light into my life. I eagerly await her visits, savouring the time I get to care for and enjoy her infectious laughter.

Alongside this joy is the fulfilment found in giving. There's a quiet happiness in serving others, helping a stranger, or comforting the needy. These acts, so small, remind me of the beauty of human connection. There is an undeniable, sacred relation between wishing good for others and things working out in your favour.

It's a little known truth : fulfilment in service is a joy unlike any other, fuelling us with empathy and compassion for those around us.

Sometimes, finding joy means letting go. Letting go of the endless comparisons, the perfectionism, and the constant urge to chase what's next. Joy flourishes in simplicity, in being content with who we are, and where we are, while still holding on to dreams that inspire us to grow. The more we own things, the more they seem to own us, reminding us that happiness is a state of being, not having.

So today, I choose to embrace it all - to smile at the little things, to savour the quiet in this imperfectly beautiful life. Because happiness, I've learned, is never too far away, it's right here.

And maybe, just maybe, joy is like a flower in bloom, quiet and gentle, waiting for us to notice and appreciate its beauty!

Expanding Horizons

The world as we know it has ended and Mother Nature starts taking back what's hers. There are no zombies or cannibals or murderous bandits. The most valued members of the community are those who know how to garden and farm, sew and weave, treat wounds, work wood or build with bricks, cook from scratch.

People should bond together to begin rebuilding instead of killing each other. Everyone teaches each other whatever they do know and works together to figure out the stuff none of them know. Books become incredibly valued resources because they're often the only way to learn critical information. If someone is elderly, disabled, or otherwise unable to work at the same level as most of the community, they're taken care of by the others, not left to prove "survival of the fittest".

As the generations wear on, communities begin expanding into small cities. Some of the settlements even find ways to repurpose solar or wind power on a small scale and have electricity in some of their buildings. Storytellers wander the countryside telling tales of the old world in return for some hot stew or a place to rest for the night, and the mythos of the new world starts to incorporate elements of the past. The only thing that remains constant is that humans survive, and they do it by working together.

It all started when I decided to go on holiday to Miami. The sun was shining bright, the birds were humming, and the waves were flowing gently. It was the dawn of spring. Everything was perfect; at least that's what I thought.

Beyond the Classroom: Expanding Horizons in a Globalized World

As students at St. Ann's College for Women, we find ourselves at a unique crossroads where education meets opportunity. The theme of "Expanding Horizons" resonates deeply with our journey as we navigate through the complexities of the modern world. In a time when boundaries are increasingly blurred, it is essential to embrace the myriad of experiences that lie beyond the confines of our classrooms.

Education is not merely about textbooks and lectures; it is about cultivating a mind-set that encourages exploration and curiosity. The world is a vast tapestry of cultures, ideas, and innovations waiting to be discovered. As we delve into our BBA in Business Analytics, we are not just learning about data and algorithms; we are preparing ourselves to understand the global marketplace, to think critically, and to adapt to the ever-changing landscape of business.

Expanding our horizons demands stepping out of our comfort zones. It involves engaging with diverse perspectives, whether through internships, study abroad programs, or community service. Each experience enriches our understanding and equips us with the skills necessary to thrive in a globalized economy. By collaborating with peers from different backgrounds, we learn the value of teamwork and the importance of empathy in a world that often feels divided.

Moreover, technology has transformed the way we connect with the world. Social media, online courses, and virtual conferences have made it easier than ever to access knowledge and share ideas. However, it is crucial to strike a balance between the digital and the physical. While we can learn from a screen, nothing compares to the richness of face-to-face interactions and the lessons learned from real-world experiences.

As we embark on this journey of expanding our horizons, let us remember that growth often comes from embracing challenges. Whether it's tackling a difficult project, participating in a debate, or simply engaging in conversations with those who think differently, each moment is an opportunity for personal and academic growth.

In conclusion, let us take full advantage of our time at St. Ann's College for Women. Let us be curious, be bold, and be open to the world around us. As we expand our horizons, we not only enhance our own lives but also contribute to a more interconnected and understanding society. The future is bright, and it is ours to shape.

Whispers of the Horizon

In the quiet dawn, where dreams take flight,
A canvas of colours spills into the light.
Each ray a promise, each shadow a guide,
Inviting the heart to wander outside.
The river flows gently, a tale to unfold,
Carving through valleys, both timid and bold.
It whispers of journeys, of paths yet to tread,
Of wisdom in silence, where thoughts can be fed.
Beneath the old banyan, roots deep in the earth,
Lays the strength of our stories, the echoes of birth.
Branches stretch wide, embracing the sky,
Reminding us softly that we too can fly.
With every new lesson, a seed is sown,
In the garden of knowledge, where we've all grown.
The winds of change beckon, with whispers so sweet,
Encouraging hearts to rise to their feet.
So let us be wanderers, seekers of grace,
In the tapestry woven, we each find our place.
For horizons are endless, like stars in the night,
And within us, the power to reach for the light.

A Journey Beyond

In the heart of the city, where dreams intertwine,
We gather as seekers, with spirits that shine.
With books in our hands and hope in our eyes,
We venture together, beneath endless skies.
Each lesson a stepping stone, each challenge a door,
We're explorers of knowledge, forever wanting more.
From classrooms to boardrooms, our paths intertwine,

In the dance of the future, our destinies align.
With every new friendship, a horizon expands,
Cultures and stories, like grains of fine sand.
We learn from each other, in laughter and tears,
Building a tapestry woven through years.
So let us be bold, let our voices be heard,
In the symphony of life, let us sing every word.
For the world is our canvas, and we hold the brush,
In the art of our journey, let's create a great rush.
As we step into tomorrow, with courage and grace,
Let's embrace every moment, let's cherish this space.
For in expanding our horizons, we find who we are,
Shining bright like the sun, each of us a star.

Expanding Horizons

A book in my hand, a dream in my mind,
A path unknown, yet I'm eager to find.
The world once small, just walls and a screen,
Now stretches beyond—so vast, so serene.

I was once afraid to step out too far,
But learning has shown me who I truly am.
Equations and essays, late nights and fears,
Yet knowledge keeps whispering, "You're almost there."

Each lesson's a window, each question a door,
The more that I learn, I hunger for more.

The stars aren't too distant; the sky's not the end,
With every new challenge, my limits extend.

So here I stand, at eighteen years old,
With stories to write, and dreams yet untold.
No longer confined, my spirit takes flight,
Expanding horizons, embracing the light.

A Tribute to the Thorn

You cut me down with harsh words and pain,
But in the wounds, strength remained.
Your doubt sparked a fire that fuelled my soul,
And in the darkness, I found a voice to make me whole.
You meant to break me, but I rose above,
A foundation built on the ashes of our love.
I thank you for the struggles, the strife and the test,
For in the fire, I was tempered, and forged into my best.

A patient or a poet?

I don't understand if I have an intelligent or an emotional mind. I don't go through things. I don't experience them and yet do I feel them in the marrow of my bones. They happen to me. Traumas happen to me but the only small problem is they actually don't and I make them up. I can live a happy life. I am. But I can't too. I can make my life miserable. Which I tend to do in my room with a book and a pen. I live life happily outside but in confines I live a million sad ones. Why do I do this to myself? Is that why people stay alone and sad. But I can be not alone and not sad too. Why can't I do this with my paper though? Not being sad. Why do I like to torture myself? Living many lives is the only wish an incompetent human can have. That I am.

The Silent Witness

The old oak tree stood at the heart of Willow Lane, its gnarled branches stretching toward the sky like ancient fingers yearning for forgotten memories. For over a century, it had been the silent witness to the town's joys and sorrows, laughter and tears.

It watched children chase fireflies in the summer twilight, lovers carve their initials into its bark, and weary souls seek solace in its shade. It listened to whispered secrets, unheard prayers, and the hushed confessions of those who believed no one else would understand.

One autumn evening, as golden leaves fluttered to the ground, an elderly man named Henry approached the tree with a wistful smile. He traced the initials he had carved decades ago—H & L. "She loved this tree," he murmured. "This was where I first told her that I loved her."

The wind sighed through the branches as if responding. Henry closed his eyes, remembering the laughter of his beloved Lily, her voice carried away by time, yet lingering in his heart.

And as the sun dipped below the horizon, the tree stood tall, its roots entwined with the past, holding stories within its silent embrace—forever a witness to the fleeting moments of life.

The art of understanding yourself

How challenges and experiences shape who we are

Perhaps our nature is to regret—to dwell on what could have been rather than what is, to imagine instances and outcomes being different.

We often wonder, "I wish I had done things differently, perhaps the right way, if I had known better." But if you hadn't done everything the wrong way, you wouldn't have discovered the right way; you wouldn't have known better if you hadn't known at all.

To learn sometimes means doing it wrong in order to understand what is right. Perhaps that is how we find ourselves.

Knowing who you are and not what others think you are

"You are not their words."

You are not the words they labelled you with; you are the words you give to others.

You are not defined by the criticism a stranger once offered you; you are defined by the compliment you give to another.

For the reflection of beauty you perceive in another that already exists within you.

You are not merely the love you receive; you are the love you give.

You are not a reflection of how you were cared for; you are a reflection of how you care for others.

You are not defined by how they made you feel; you are defined by how you make others feel.

You were never defined by how you were perceived, but by how you perceive.

What makes one a good person

Perhaps the most interesting qualities in a person aren't found in what they wear, own, or how they look, but in how they learn from their mistakes and correct them; in the way they communicate and make others feel heard; in their ability to apologize and forgive; in maintaining respectful dialogue even during disagreements; and in their adeptness at understanding.

I truly believe that what makes someone a good person is not always determined by their achievements, but by how they treat someone they dislike—someone whose outlook does not match their own. It is very easy to treat someone you adore, love, and whose perspective you agree with, with kindness, making them feel special and loved. However, what truly defines a person is how they treat someone they do not like or agree with.

Our actions reveal our true character. When we extend respect, empathy, and understanding to those who challenge our beliefs, we demonstrate the strength of our values.

Expanding horizons

Let go of your comfort zone

For how long will you stay behind?

The world's just a spectator and you're on your own

Among the millions of others, your worth you must find

Step forward, look ahead and dream high

You're not just a star there to shine

Rather the moon that illuminates the sky
So don't falter and go past the line

For you are meant to leave behind a legacy
A name that's known by all
It's your time to conquer, to strut fearlessly
Let go of your comfort zone, this is your wake up call.

That's all I need to know

May be I'm for no one...
May be I'm for no one
Maybe alone is where I'm meant to be Everyone says "you'll find the one"
"Just wait and see" but what if "the one" was never for me
What if I am done over sharing with someone who won't even text back?
What if I don't want to waste another Saturday overthinking a "okay" reply
What if I'm tired of chasing what isn't real
Falling for words that never heal
They all were liars in disguise
Red flags all in their eyes
Every "ONE" was a lesson I didn't request
A pain in my heart, a weight on my chest
Maybe I am for no one and maybe that's okay
Maybe I am better off finding my own way
So let them go one and let them grow
Maybe I am for no one and that's all I need to know

Letters: from me to you, an unspoken bundle

My dear, have you yet unsealed the
Wax that has been dried up long ago,
Have you discovered the lip stain marks?
That I have left behind,
What about the words that linger
On the parchment, that conveys my unspoken words,
Desires and longing for you,
Each word had been crafted carefully
With you etched into my soul,
Each sentence depicting my own need
To have you by my side.
Each shared memory of ours
Is weaved beautifully into a tapestry
That is worth more than the Glitz of this earth.
The bond we share is beyond celestials
The spark that flies between us
Is not a fleeting moment
But a vow to something more.
I have been waiting
Dusk to dawn just to hear back from you,
Oh my love has this unspoken bundle not find
Its way to you, as the clock ticks
My patience has been holding onto the last
Ray of Hope,
Just remember that this is from me to you and
May this Letter convey my Heart to you and as always I am
Here for you.

Memories of my Golden Era

Is the year coming to an end?
Oh no, it's the semester that's ending.
Time has flown by so swiftly
That now we stand at the edge—
With no next semester ahead.

I still remember the day I first stepped into college,
The air buzzing with excitement,
Nerves dancing as I gazed around the campus.
Everything felt new,
Strangers moved in herds, each in their own little bubble.

As time passed, strangers became friends,
The walls of the campus grew familiar,
And the corridors echoed with our laughter.
The stairs became our resting spot,
The nooks and crannies of the once-unknown building
Turned into places we called our own.

Then came the friendships that stood by me,
That saw me cry, laugh,
And do the weirdest things in the name of memory.
We ate together,
Used the infirmary as our personal resting space.
The canteen food, once a novelty,
Slowly became our daily source of energy.

These people, my friends,

Became my support system.
And now, the moments we shared
Have turned into cherished memories,
Scattered like golden flakes in time.

As we reach the end of this three-year journey,
We've learned not just how to survive in this competitive world,
Or how to maintain good percentage of attendance,
But also how to make the best memories
Without losing ourselves in the process.

Most of all, we've learned to cherish each other.
And as I leave this campus,
The Zoo Squad will always remain a part of me.
This—these years, these moments—
Will forever be the golden era of my life.

Comfort

Lately I have been gazing at moon every night. And I have seen almost all the phases of it. And I must say I'm pretty astonished. I didn't know I was a selenophile until one night when I was enjoying the fresh air from my balcony. And then my eye caught an alluring and gleaming object. Recently I feel that I became a really observant person. I try to find solutions from natural things or you can say that nature and moon lit nights works as a remedy for me.

I wanted to know if other people think the same as me or not so. I have asked many people about their perspective about the moon. And their answers were quite different

Many people think that moon is just a round gleaming object.

But one person's thoughts just touched my heart.

She said that moon is something which comforts her during lonely nights; she feels that she has a company. She feels that the moon is comforting her telling her "you're not alone"... "I'm here for you the whole night".

The words she said were really deep and I completely agree with that. But I have some different thoughts as well

I think that the moon is lonely itself and the stars are helping her feel less lonely. The people are finding their comfort from moon but can't it be that the moon is finding comfort from people watching it.

The moon has many grey patches on it and I feel that those are the stains of dried tears of the moon. Is moon crying because of the loneliness or by watching people being sad and miserable?

Unleashing Your Potential: Rewrite the rules and succeed on your terms.

Learning, creativity, and passion—these three things shape not just our careers but our entire lives. Yet, many people limit themselves by thinking education stops at a certain age, hobbies are just for fun, and their beliefs are set in stone. The truth? There's no limit to learning, no cap on creativity, and no telling how far a simple passion can take you. Let's break some misconceptions and explore how an open mind and a willingness to learn can lead to success.

- Learning without limits: Knowledge has no age limit

One of the biggest mistakes people make is assuming that learning has an age limit. Some elders feel embarrassed when they don't know something that younger generations do, while some young people assume they already know everything. The reality? Learning is a lifelong process, and no one knows everything.

- ✓ Why no one should feel humiliated for not knowing something

A child may know how to navigate social media, while an elder might be skilled in life experiences and problem-solving—both types of knowledge matter.

New fields of study emerge all the time. Someone who graduated 20 years ago wouldn't have studied AI or Digital Marketing, but they can learn now.

Humility in learning is the key. The most successful people are those who constantly seek knowledge, regardless of their age.

Bottom line? If you don't know something, ask, learn, and grow instead of feeling ashamed. And if you do know something, share without making others feel small.

- From Hobby to Career: Why passion pays

Ever noticed how people who love their jobs never complain about Mondays? That's because turning a hobby into a career is the ultimate secret to job satisfaction. Many people ignore their skills because they think hobbies should stay as hobbies.

- ✓ Why does your hobby deserves attention

You never know the potential of a skill until you put it to use. A casual artist could become a top-tier designer. A weekend baker could turn into a business owner.

Hobbies keep your passion alive, and when passion meets work, it never feels like a chore.

Many successful people started from hobbies—YouTubers, artists, writers, and entrepreneurs all built careers out of things they loved doing for free.

So, before dismissing what you love as “just a hobby,” ask yourself: What if this could be more? Because it absolutely can.

- Creative Thinking: Reality checks for becoming more open-minded

Here's something I've noticed: Open-minded and unbiased people are rare. Many people hold onto deep-rooted prejudices, refusing to accept new ideas or perspectives. The problem? This kind of mind-set blocks creativity, growth, and meaningful conversations.

- ✓ How to break free from a closed mind-set

1. Challenge your own beliefs – Ask yourself: “What if I’m wrong?”
Learning starts when we’re willing to question what we think we know.
2. Listen to understand, not to reply – Most people listen just to respond.
Truly open-minded individuals listen to learn.
3. Expose yourself to different perspectives – Read books, watch documentaries, and talk to people outside your usual circle. Prejudice fades with knowledge.
4. Accept that change is constant – The world is evolving. Holding onto outdated ideas only holds you back.

The truth is, being open-minded is a choice. If you want to think creatively and see the world differently, it starts with breaking mental barriers.

- Conclusion: The mind-set that shapes your future

The most successful people never stop learning, never underestimate their passions, and never close their minds to new ideas. Whether it’s picking up a new skill, turning a hobby into a profession, or challenging the way we think, our growth is entirely in our hands.

So, ask yourself—what’s stopping you from learning, creating, and evolving? Whatever it is, it’s time to let go and Expand Your Horizons.

KABUL: The City of Stars

Would anyone here like to know how Kabul TODAY is? I'm an Indian. It has been a month since I'm here as far as I reckon. It doesn't feel so lonely. The very capital of the country Afghanistan; Kabul surrounded by occupied mountains of migrants who took shelter while the other cities were involved in wars, isn't how you imagine. So, no matter how far you are from your country, you always look on the streets with keen eyes to find someone who belongs to your land too. And how fortunate is that! I found a few! Group of people owning good number of commercial shops; selling Indian products especially, as well as of other countries; following Sikhism but are true Afghans. Speaking both the languages (Dari and Urdu) was quite amazing to know that their ancestors were all Indians and sadly now no Afghan is allowed to have citizenship of India and vice versa.

Apart from what people think of the "BLUE TENT" (that is what people out of this country call it: Burqa) you must know that here are the people who spread fashion. Every other human walking on the street is fully allowed to dress as they wish but following the hijab. Where ever you go, you always find beautiful and well-bred people.

Talking of the living here, follows the best of imported food, furniture, and clothing from friendly countries like Germany, Iran, Turkey, Pakistan, India, China and Italy. Lavish standard of living of the rich make them over protected and the poor who own nothing but brave hearts to fight for their own lives. When I look around, it feels like WOW! This place is yet so confident in spite of the extremes. Kudos to the patience of Afghans.

How can I forget? "Naan the Jaan of Afghan" probably is the one highly required edible thing without which they can't survive. And what? They always buy it almost every day. In the initial period it was hard for me to adapt to having low spiced food and thick breads to chew, where I mostly bit my tongue, but soon after few days I became used to the culture and after falling sick because of the weather I was at ease within a week. Whenever I pass across the street, there is not a shop, 1 among 5 consecutive where those giant lengthy naans aren't available. Size of the ice cream cone? Not less than 20 centimetres. Another type of ice cream called Sheer Yakh that includes one of prime ingredients i.e, snow brought from the mountains and literally serving it the whole spring. The snow is actually preserved until the season ends. Sounds crazy but tastes heavenly! Probably one of my favourites from Afghani sweets. Here food is very simple but tastes vary.

Would you still believe that there are and once upon a time there were people called Talibans? It all feels like a history to me; when I was about to be here, or get married to my husband many people constantly kept asking me to beware, asking me questions like "Aren't you scared?" "What if you be one of the victims from the attacks or blasts there?" , "How will you live in the whole so new world?" , "How will you interact with people of some other language?" , "Won't you miss your country?" , "Will you ever come back?" , "Why don't you live in safer place?" , "How will you manage exchanging roti from naan?" , "What if he (my husband) turns out to be from one of those Talibans?".

was so done with answering such questions of my friends and others. Of course I wasn't sure how Kabul is now, but somewhere I had that belief of not being in danger. It's all what they want to show you. But now it's all what I see and what I want to see.

Exaggerating agendas and manipulating people is what the media's job is. We all know that. Whatever I heard of Kabul being unsafe and blasts over blasts is not just. This country is still fighting and without it, that's never going to be peace forever. Everyone and everything is very normal here. Yes! People live here like in other countries. My husband has made me very tough to hear all such.

We sometimes hear sounds of gun fire, but I suppose that those are crackers and let it go! Hah! What I love are the old Russian vehicles, heavy and abandoned on the exact same place where they stopped working at the time of wars. Cops here are very dedicated. Security checkpoints are highly strict. Every picture exhibited on the posters has a big story. Unbelievable ones.

Of the things you might not know is that 1 in 500 vehicles is a bike. The most expensive cars here are in use because you don't have to pay taxes for most things. I miss long bike rides with my husband in Hyderabad. Prime reason for bikes not being used is because of dusty weather and layering of thick snow on roads. This place doesn't heat much, as much as the Indian summers. I'm in love with the weather here.

We (me and my husband) explore a lot of places where I can see clouds hugging mountains and veils of snow enhancing the view. It looks astonishing! We all (me, Ammi, Abbu and my husband) went up the mountain which surrounds the city, at about 8 o'clock in the evening and guess what we saw? A view from where we were able to see all the other mountains and the beautiful city in the heart of it, almost took my breath away! That was the most amazing feeling, as the houses on mountains twinkled like stars in the galaxy all together... and you might have got it, why I call it The City of Stars!

When Shooting Stars Fade, The Sun Rises

Sometimes, amidst a dark night, some people or some things come into your life like shooting stars. For a short period of time i.e. for as long as they are present, they make you forget that you are in a period of darkness. They grab your attention and make you feel alright.

They come so unexpectedly that you feel as though a miracle has happened and that everything will be alright forever. But, just as time, they need to leave as well. And when they do, for a while you feel as though you are lost again, it's true, no doubt. But then, at the time when you had lost all hope, they came in as a reminder that things can change, you can get better, everything leaves, but you stay. Perhaps the sun is on its way to light your life for a time unimaginable and that this shooting star was just a glimpse of what is about to come.

Introspect, find yourself (it's not an easy task), change, become better, learn with each downfall, do not let go. Know your flaws and get comfortable with them first. It's a long process. This is a period of transition. It's okay if you aren't the same as before, you were never meant to be the same person you once were. There's a long way ahead waiting for you to come and discover the beautiful paths and roads that are unseen by your eyes. Hustle, but do not lose yourself. Cherish the moments that you spend with everyone and everything as they might never come again.

Things will be just fine, maybe not anytime soon, but maybe sooner than you think. Grab your backpack with the lessons that life has taught you, take your morals along, forget the things that you want to, put on your lovely smile and start moving forward for the exciting unseen journey of yours. Salaam (Peace).

A GLIMPSE

Shouldn't you be practicing yourself,
All that you preach?
Shouldn't you be opening up,
Instead of keeping it all in?
There's so much fear
Of what others might think
Perhaps you aren't alone
To feel this way
It's hard to write now
Afraid of whom? I say
Letting it out now
'Cause who cares
Oh, it's getting scarier these days
With all that's going on
In the world
In my world
Shouldn't I be letting it all go?
Shouldn't I be trying a little more?
Everything's different now
Change is hard to accept Confused between living each day as is and working towards the ultimate goal; doing my best and
not burning myself out;
Oh, what's going to happen?
No one knows
It'll be alright with the Almighty by my side
Look at the small steps-
Don't stress yourself out,
Do what you want,
Let it be.
How long will we survive?

Why am I only able to write when I'm sad?

Why am I only able to write when I'm sad?

Is it because happiness drips off my face when I'm riding clouds, weaving my way through sunshine? Is it because, when the storm hits and my chest aches, I'm unable to express my emotions in coherent words, not fully understanding my own feelings most of the time? Has anyone ever truly discovered a cure for melancholy?

Why do I feel this sharp ache in my heart, when it's made of muscles that are supposed to never tire? Sometimes, when it beats at a rate so high, I feel like it will burst--blood will splatter inside my chest and nobody can see it. But I would feel it. I thrive in it.

I dip my pen in that blood and write what my tongue cannot verbalize. Maybe it is this forbidden ink that strikes my creative spark. Maybe that is why I can write only when I'm sad.

Breaking Point

Liberation--how does one truly free themselves from the chains that bind them? Do they pull at them, only to be crushed under their weight? Do they drag them along, leaving a trail of blood behind? Or do they grow so accustomed to the burden that they forget what freedom even feels like? When does the weight become unbearable? When is enough, enough? Must I keep pushing my limits until they push back, forcing me to my knees? Must I wait for the chains to snap on their own, or do I take matters into my own hands?

No. I refuse to be held captive by the weight of these metaphorical chains. I will not surrender to the binds that seek to hold me down. I will push harder. I will fight harder. Even if the chains dig into my skin, even if the weight tries to crush me, I will rise. I will shatter my limits. I will break free, not just from what binds me but from the very idea that I was ever meant to be confined.

I will fight. I will fight. I will fight.

I will carve my own path, unchained and unbound. I will not be defined by limitations--I will transcend them, nor will I be caged by fear. I will rise, I will expand, I will reach beyond the horizon--beyond everything that once tried to hold me back. I will be free.

If I were to fall in love with a writer

If I were to fall in love with a writer
How perfect would it be?
My dull days would be brighter
And everything would make sense to me

If I were to fall in love with a writer
I'd be the muse in his art
Every line he'd compose with fervour
Would echo the rhythm of my heart

I'd find him lost in a whirlwind of thoughts
Ink-stained fingers tracing dreams untold
Pages of passion and verses caught
In a tapestry of words so bold

I'd watch him as twilight kisses the night
His pen dancing in moonlight's glow
Each sentence he pens, love ignites
A universe only we would know

I'd find him asleep at his cluttered desk

Papers scattered, chaos divine
Each word written, an untamed caress
Whispering, "You are eternally mine."

I'd gently gather his scattered dreams
And hold them close, like precious gold
Wipe my tears, silent yet redeemed
In his love, I'd be eternally consoled

I'd kiss his forehead, so tender, so true
Wrap him in warmth as he slumbers deep
Knowing the poems he wrote of me too
Are treasures my heart will forever keep

If I were to fall in love with a writer
Oh, how perfect it would be
For I would write about him, endlessly
And he would write about me

Above and beyond

I've withered, I've bloomed,
Travelled a thousand places,
From the confines of my room.

Have fallen in love a hundred times
Once with a Prince, once with a warrior,
Once with an ordinary man,
And once with an enemy, breaking every barrier.

I have lived a thousand and ten lives
But none more intriguing than that of my own

Because characters I read, remain stuck in paper and ink
While I jump pages to pages, books to books, lives to lives, like I am known

Known in parts of town,
I am so certain do not exist,
One where I am the Prince charming, I'm the horrid monster
And the damsel--only if I must insist

So above and beyond I've travelled the world
Above and beyond I've lived a thousand and ten lives
Above and beyond I've fought witches and monsters
Only to escape mine.

The Eternal Bond

Time flows relentless, unshackled, untamed,
A river unyielding, no moment reclaimed.
Faces, like autumn leaves, drift and depart,
Ephemeral whispers etched deep in the heart.
Vows sworn in twilight, in moonlight's embrace,
Fade into echoes, dissolve without trace.
Yet loyalty lingers where true souls entwine,
Unfaltering, steadfast, untouched by decline.
For those who remain when the tempests unfold,
Are rarer than diamonds, more sacred than gold

Time, healing, and the expanding soul

Human relationships, like the intricate threads of an ancient tapestry, are woven with care yet prone to unravelling. Love, trust, and companionship form the delicate embroidery of our lives, yet even the strongest bonds are not impervious to time's trials. Misunderstandings arise like gathering storms, words spoken in haste leave wounds unseen, and expectations weigh heavy on the heart.

There are moments when rifts seem unbridgeable, when pain feels eternal, and when the past casts an inescapable shadow upon the present. And yet, if there is one force more inexorable than suffering, it is time—the silent, patient healer that softens jagged edges and restores what once seemed lost.

Time does not erase wounds, nor does it undo the past, but it wields an artistry far more profound: the ability to transmute pain into wisdom, resentment into understanding, and distance into perspective. In the immediacy of heartbreak—whether in love, friendship, or family—our world contracts, narrowing to the singular pain of the moment. But as time unfolds, the soul finds room to breathe. With each passing day, we begin to see beyond our suffering, until the horizon of our understanding expands, revealing truths once obscured.

Pain demands attention, sharpening memory and distorting perception. Yet time, with quiet persistence, erodes the tyranny of a single moment. What once felt insurmountable gradually softens; what once seemed unforgivable begins to be understood—not always excused, but placed within the broader context of human frailty. Time allows us to glimpse not only the faults of others but our own.

This is time's quiet alchemy—not in erasing, but in transforming. Some relationships, once thought indispensable, fade into memory, leaving behind only the wisdom they imparted. Others, given time and reflection, find new ground to stand upon, rebuilt not in an attempt to reclaim what was, but to create something different, something tempered by the trials it endured.

Reconciliation, when it comes, is not always a return to what once was. Sometimes, it is the recognition that closure need not mean rekindling, that healing is found not in reliving the past but in accepting it. And sometimes, just as the sun rises on an uncharted shore, we find that what was once broken has quietly mended in the spaces between words unspoken.

For time does not merely heal—it accommodates. Where once there was only sorrow, now there is perspective; where once there was only anger, now there is space for grace. Those who trust in time’s slow but certain wisdom find that no pain is eternal, no fracture irreparable, and no horizon fixed. Life is not meant to be lived within the confines of a single moment, nor within the walls of a single grief. Instead, it is an ever-expanding journey, where every wound, with time, becomes a stepping stone toward something greater.

Thus, we move forward—not in forgetting, but in becoming. Not in erasing, but in growing. And as time unfolds before us, so too does the vast, endless horizon of the soul.

The Decision Dilemma: Unpacking the paradox of excessive choices

Introduction

In our daily lives, we’re often faced with numerous choices, from selecting a meal to selecting a movie. While having options is generally positive, an overabundance can lead to stress and dissatisfaction. This phenomenon is known as the “paradox of choice.”

Imagine entering a store to buy a simple item, like a jar of jam. If you’re presented with 24 different flavours, making a decision becomes daunting. Studies have shown that while a large selection attracts interest, it often results in fewer purchases because the decision feels overwhelming. Conversely, a smaller selection can lead to more decisive and satisfying choices.

Factors contributing to the paradox of choice

When presented with an overwhelming number of choices, people often experience decision paralysis—the fear of making the wrong choice prevents them from making any decision at all. This abundance of options also elevates expectations, making it challenging for any selected choice to fully satisfy us.

Consequently, if a decision doesn't meet these heightened expectations, individuals may blame themselves, believing they could have chosen better. To navigate this paradox, it's beneficial to limit our options by setting specific criteria, thereby simplifying the decision-making process. Additionally, establishing clear goals helps align our choices with our true needs.

Embracing solutions that are “good enough” rather than seeking perfection can also lead to greater satisfaction and reduced stress.

Conclusion

While having choices offers freedom, too many options can lead to unnecessary stress. By streamlining our options and focusing on what truly matters, we can make decisions more easily and find greater satisfaction in them.

డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచం లో ఒంటరి మానవుడు

మానవుడి మేధాశక్తి కి ప్రతిరూపం -

మానవుడి సృజనాత్మకత శక్తి రాతి యుగము నుండి రోబోట్ నుండి విస్తరించింది. 1857 లో ఫోన్ ను ఆవిష్కరించిన అలెక్సాండర్ గ్రాహంబెల్ , కంప్యూటర్ కు రూపకల్పన చేసిన చార్లెస్ బాబేజ్ వంటి ఎందరో మేధావులకు ప్రతి ఫలమే ఈ డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచం . అదే విధంగా మానవుడి మేధస్సును యంత్రానికి ఆపాదించగా కృత్రిమ మేధస్సు కు రూపకల్పన జరిగింది.

డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచ పరిచయం

డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచము అంటే డిజిటల్ పరికరాలు, ప్రపంచమంతా ఎన్నో ఆలోచనలతో , అవకాశాలతో, అభిప్రాయాలతో నిండినది. ఈ డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచం లో కంప్యూటర్, స్మార్ట్ ఫోన్, టి. వి. వంటి ఎన్నో డిజిటల్ పరికరాల ద్వారా ఇంటర్నెట్ సహాయంతో పని భారాన్ని తగ్గించడం, సమాచార వేగాన్ని పెంచడం వంటి ఎన్నో సౌకర్యాలు కలిగాయి. ప్రపంచము మానవులకు ఎంతో నివాసయోగ్యంగా మారడం ఒక ఒక కొండమైతే , అదే ప్రపంచములో మూగ సంభాషణలతో చితికి పోయి గదులుగా విడిపోయి , అరలుగా మారిపోయింది.

డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచములో మూగ మానవులు

ఈ భూ ప్రపంచములో ఉండే మాటలు డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచములో లేవు. ఈ ప్రపంచము మానవుల మూగ సంభాషణల తోనే నడుస్తుంది. ప్రపంచం దగ్గరయింది. మానవుడు మానవ సంబంధాలకు దూరమయ్యాడు. ఈ డిజిటల్ పరికరాలు మానవుల మధ్య ఆత్మీయతానుబంధాలను పెంచు తున్నాయో , తుంచుతున్నాయో అర్థం కానంత సంఘర్షణ లో ప్రపంచం ముందుకు వెళ్లదీస్తుంది. సమయం,, సమాచారం అలారం వంటి నిత్యావసరమైనవి మాత్రమే తెలుసుకునే విధంగా ఉండే ఈ మొబైల్ ఫోన్ ను 21 వ శతాబ్దం నాటికి కొత్త పీచర్స్ తో రూపొందించారు. కప్పకు భావే ప్రపంచమైతే .. మనిషికి స్మార్టుఫోన్ ప్రపంచమైంది. రైళ్లు , బస్సులు ఎక్కి కూర్చుంటే ఎక్కడికి వెళ్తున్నారనే వారి యోగ క్షేమాలను పూర్వలా ఎవరూ అడగడం లేదు. ఎవరి ఫోన్లో వారు తల దూరుస్తున్నాడు. మచ్చుకు ఒక ఉదాహరణ ఒక ఇంట్లో అమ్మ వండి భోజనానికి పిలిస్తే కుటుంబసభ్యులందరూ కంపీటర్లలో మునిగిపోతే భోజనానికి రమ్మని ఆమె

మెసేజ్ చేసాక అందరూ వచ్చి కూర్చున్నాక మరల ఫోన్లో మునిగిపోతే అన్నం కంచంలోనే ఉందని మెసేజ్ చెయ్యాలి. ఇటువంటి వన్నీ సోషల్ మీడియాలో విహరించే హాస్యాలైనా వాస్తవాలే.

బాల్యం బంధీ అయింది డిజిటల్ ప్రపంచం లో ..

ఒకప్పుడు పిల్లలు తోలుబొమ్మలను తాయారు చేసి ఆడితే ఇప్పుడు డిజిటల్ పరికరాల చేతుల్లో కీలుబొమ్మలవుతున్నారు. ఫోన్ల నో , కంప్యూటర్లో చూపిస్తే గాని ముద్ద కూడా దిగదు . నేటి పిల్లలకు ఫోన్లలోనే ఆడుతున్నారు. దీని వలన శారీరక వ్యాయామం జరగటం లేదు.

సమాజానికి సందేశం

ఈ డిజిటల్ పరికరాలను మానవులు వారి అవసరానికి మాత్రమే సవీకరిస్తే వారి జీవితం ఆనందాల హరివిల్లు అవుతుంది. బియ్యం లో రాళ్లు ఏరినట్టు నేటి యువత అనవసర సమాచారం తొలగించి తమ వివేకానికి వాడుకుంటే ఉత్తమ భవిష్యత్తు ను పొందుతారు. ఈ విధంగా మానవులు డిజిటల్ పరికరాలను తమ వివేకానికి ఉపయోగించుకొని మానసిక, శారీరక రుగ్మతులు నుండి విముక్తి చెందగలరు. హాంస పాలను నీటి నుండి వేరు చేసి పాలను మాత్రమే స్వీకరించి నట్లు అనవసర సమాచారాన్ని తొలగించి తమ జ్ఞానానికి వాడుకున్న ప్రతిభావంతు ప్రయోజకుడు అవుతాడు.

దిశానిర్దేశకాలుగా నిలిచిన చలన చిత్రాలు

సమాజానికి ప్రతిబింబాలు చలనచిత్రాలు మూకీ చిత్రాల నుంచి టాకీ చిత్రాల వరకు ఇవాళ మనం ఎదిగాము. ప్రపంచవ్యాప్తంగా మనం ఎదిగామనడానికి ఒక ప్రధాన ఉదాహరణ ఆస్కార్ అవార్డు అందుకున్నాము. బాహుబలి, పుష్ప వంటి చిత్రాల్లోని కొన్ని పాటలైతే ప్రపంచం నలుమూలలలోని వివిధ దేశీయుల నోటా నాట్యమాడుతుంటే మన భాష వినసొంపైన భాష అన్న విషయం రుజువవుతోంది కదా. ఇకపోతే ఒకప్పుడు వీధినాటకాలు, పురాణ కాలక్షేపాలుగా ఉన్న రూపాలు ఇప్పుడు చలనచిత్రాలు గా రూపం సంతరించుకుంది. చలన చిత్రాలు నాలుగు రకాలుగా వర్గీకరించవచ్చు.

చారిత్రక చిత్రాలు 2. పౌరాణిక చిత్రాలు, 3. జానపద చిత్రాలు , 4. సాంఘిక చలన చిత్రాలు

చారిత్రక చిత్రాలు

మన తెలుగు జాతి ధీరులు , యోధుల, జీవిత చరిత్రలు గురించి చారిత్రంగా తీయడాన్ని చారిత్రక చిత్రం గా చెప్పాలి. రుద్రమదేవి, అల్లూరిసీతారామరాజు, సావిత్రి , నటసామ్రాట్ నందమూరి తారక రామారావు, ఇలా పలు చిత్రాలను మచ్చుకు పేర్కొనవచ్చు. ఒక వ్యాక్స్ = రీ జీవిత చరిత్రను గురించి చేప్పడం అతని మనోభావాలు, కష్టం , సుఖం గురించే చిత్రాలు ఉదాహరణగా తీసుకోవచ్చు.

2. పౌరాణిక చిత్రాలు.

మన పురాణాల నుంచి , ఇతిహాసం నుంచి తీసుకున్న ఇతివృత్తాలను పౌరాణిక చిత్రాలని అంటారు. మహాభారతం, రామాయణం లాంటి ఇతిహాసాల నుండి కథలు, కావ్యాలు, మాటలు , కథానికులుగా తీసుకుంటారు.

ఉదా - ప్రముఖ దర్శకుడు త్రివిక్రమ్ గా తన తీసిన సినిమాల్లో పాత్రల ఔచిత్యాలను ఉద్దేశించి హీరో , విలన్ ల పై ఉపయోగిస్తున్నారు. కొన్ని సంభాషణలను ఇక్కడ గమనించండి.

“రావణుడు సీతను పట్టుకున్నాడు రాముడి చేతిలో చచ్చాడు.

వదిలేసుంటే కనీసం బ్రతికేవాడు.

కొరవులు జూదం లో గెలిచారు, కురుక్షేత్రంలో పోయారు.

కాబట్టి కొన్ని సార్లు గెలవడం కన్నా , ఓడిపోవడమే

పట్టుకోవడం కన్నా వదిలేయడ మే గొప్ప

ఇలా ఎన్నో సంభాషణలు సన్ ఆఫ్ సత్యమూర్తి, జులాయి, అత్తారింటికి దారేది, అల వైకుంఠపురం ఇలా పలు చిత్రాలను పేర్కొనవచ్చు. పాత చిత్రాలైతే కృషాణార్జున యుద్ధం , దాన ,వీర, సూర ,కర్ణ , మాయాబజార్, లాంటి చిత్రాలు మొదలగు చిత్రాల్లోని మాటలు తెలుగు వారి నోటా తాండవమాడుతుంటాయి.

జానపద చిత్రాలు

జానపద చిత్రం లోని చాలా కథా అంశాలు మనిషి ముందడుగుకు మార్గదర్శకాలుగా చిత్రించారు. జగదేకవీరుని కథ, అగ్గిపరాటా , ఏకవీర ఇలాఎన్నో ఉన్నాయి .

సాంఘిక చిత్రాలు

సమాజానికి ప్రతిబింబమే సినిమా అని మొదట అనుకున్నాం . తోడికోడళ్లు, చదువుకున్న అమ్మాయిలు, అన్నదమ్ములు,ఉమ్మడికుటుంబం , స్వర్ణకమలం, సప్తపది.రుద్రవీణ మొదలగునవి.

తెలుగు భాషలో ఎంతో మాధుర్యమున్నది . చలనచిత్రాలు కేవలం ఎంటర్టైన్మెంట్ దృష్టి లో కాకుండా మానవునికి దిశానిర్దేశకాలుగా ఇలా చూస్తే ఎంతో బాగుంటుంది .

یہ کیسی چیز ہے فرماں برداری
جو ہے سب پر طاری
چند الفاظ کی ہی تو ہے یہ بات
پھر کیوں بند ہیں میرے ہاتھ
صحیح اور غلط کا ہے مجھے احساس
لیکن کیوں نہیں مانتے یہ لوگ آس پاس
جائز بھی تو ہے میری بات،
پھر کیا مسئلہ ہے اس میں خاص
ان کی طرف سے تو میں سوچ چکی...
وضاحتیں بھی دے چکی...
ہاں، نیت ہے ان کی صاف
لیکن دل بھی تو ہے میرے پاس..
خواہشات اور چاہتیں ہیں میری
لیکن سب کچھ حدود میں ہی
چلو، ٹھیک ہے، مان لوں گی ان کی بات
فرماں برداری ہے میرے پاس...

جو دل طلب نہ کرے، وہ انتظار کیسا؟
جو زباں شکوہ کرے، وہ صبر کیسا؟
جو ہر چیز پر سوال کرے، پھر وہ اعتبار کیسا؟
جو وقت گنوا دیا ہو، پھر وہ قدر کیسی؟
جو بس پائی ہو، احساس نہ ہو، پھر وہ آنسو کیسے؟
اس سب کی نا موجودگی ہو اور ہر شے مسلسل ہو،
پھر وہ زندگی کیسی؟

وسعتوں کا سفر

نکلو گھروں سے، چلو آسماں تک
کہیں پر بھی رُکنا، سزا ہے یہاں تک

سمندر کے اُس پار دنیا بسی ہے
کہیں پر نئی روشنی جاگتی ہے

ہوا کی زباں میں نیا راگ سن لو
کہ پنچھی کی پرواز کا راز سن لو

نئی سرزمین پر نئے خواب بکھرے
ہزاروں ہیں منظر، نئے رنگ نکھرے

جوڑک جائے، وہ ایک قصہ پرانا
جو بڑھتا رہے، وہی ہے زمانہ

تو وسعت کے دروا کرو آج دل میں
کہ دنیا سمائی ہے ایک جست میں بھی

The album cover features a soft, pastel gradient background transitioning from light pink at the top to a warm, golden-orange at the bottom. The design is adorned with various floral and butterfly illustrations. In the top left, there are clusters of yellow and orange flowers. A large, vibrant yellow rose is positioned in the upper left quadrant. The top right corner is filled with large, detailed orange and yellow roses. In the bottom left, there are several blue and teal roses. A large, delicate white butterfly with iridescent wings is located in the upper center, and another similar butterfly is in the bottom right. The entire scene is scattered with small, sparkling white particles, giving it a magical and ethereal feel.
